Reasons for Recommendations

It is important that there is information readily available to the public concerning the history of the Foreshore Trust as well as its current operational and governance arrangements.

FORESHORE TRUST WEBPAGE

1. Increasingly, the public accesses information on the internet and it is important that information relating to the Charity is readily available.
2. The attached is suggested content for a webpage on the Council's website. With links to the Scheme and other documents adopted by Charity Committee today, the annual report and published accounts of the Charity, the plan of the Charity's land (once registered), information on grants and grant criteria, and information about events programmed to take place on Charity land, the webpage should be a valuable source of information for the public.
